Bell Fears 'Sleigh Ride' for the Taxpayers

TIME OF LONELINESS—Christmas is a time for the "little people", a religious holiday and a holiday for the family, complete with a Santa Claus, presents, a tree and a turkey. Billy Jeffery of Dallas, Tex. is but six years old and this will be the 7th Christmas his father, Maj. Robert

D. Jeffery has spent as a POW in North Vietnam. For Billy and the others in his position there is a loneliness for the present but a prayerful hope for the future. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Fearing that perhaps taxpayers would be taken for a sleigh ride under Gov. Rockefeller's modified $1.5 million budget gap-closing proposals, Assemblyman H. Clark Bell called the plan "unacceptable and fiscally unsound."

Explaining, Bell told of the governor's starting off anticipating some $200 million in federal aid to balance the state's budget. Then, he said, as the state fiscal crisis drew deeper, Rockefeller increased the federal "if" money to $400 million.

Now, he added, "in an apparent attempt to attract Democratic support from the New York State Legislature, the governor has increased this estimate for federal aid or 'if' money to $600 million with $200 million earmarked to subsidize New York City and its transportation system."

Bell said that no bill providing one dime has passed the Federal Congress in Washington without action by the federal government on some form of federal aid which is long overdue and justified. "This type of budget maneuvering is fiscally unsound, he said.

"It's the transportation bond issue all over again," Bell added.

As late as Wednesday afternoon, the assemblyman continued, specifics on the governor's proposals had not been transmitted to the legislature's fiscal committees. However, Bell, a member of the Assembly Ways and Means Committee, said he met with staff personnel Wednesday in Albany to review the data thus far submitted by the governor's staff.

He said he "is pleased to see the increased degree of cooperation growing between the governor's staff and the legislature's fiscal committees. Information is beginning to flow and answers are beginning to materialize."

But, he added, "a great deal more information and specifics on the governor's proposals are absolutely essential before a meaningful evaluation can be made."

Bell said the fiscal committee plans to work right through the Christmas weekend and hopefully will have some analysis of the governor's proposals for Monday's special session.

He said he will continue to study the available information and looks forward to receiving the specifics in order to try and prepare "as best as possible under the circumstances for the upcoming special session."

It was Bell, who along with Senator Jay P. Rolison who first balked at the governor's budget in mid-December, leading what at that time looked like a pending revolt.

They were joined in their sentiment and their call for "more details" by Assemblyman Joseph R. Pisani of New Rochelle, Assemblyman M. Margiotta of Uniondale, unofficial leader of a powerful bloc of suburban representatives and others.

Assembly Speaker Perry B. Duryea of Suffolk County said Rockefeller's proposals were not solid long-range solutions and that the prediction of $400 million more in federal aid was "featherly."

Meanwhile it was learned today that the state's multi-million budget deficit could grow by $50 million under a federal order that threatens to cut off Medicaid funds to 15,000 patients in nursing homes in the state beginning the first of the year.

If the funds are withdrawn at the end of the year, the state would have to make up the $50 million.

The cut off will mean the loss of $43 million in funds to state facilities and $7.5 million to private facilities.

The State Health Department announced that the state will pick up the tab if the private facilities are cut off. The state would automatically be responsible for its own facilities.

In both cases the federal government is cutting off the funds because the state and private facilities do not meet operational and structural standards set by the federal government.

Jimmy Hoffa in Family Reunion After Commutation of Sentence

ST. LOUIS (AP) — James R. Hoffa, the former Teamsters union president, was reunited with his ailing wife and family today after being freed from federal prison by President Nixon.

"I don't believe it. I just don't believe it," Josephine Hoffa exclaimed Thursday night as she warmly embraced her husband at the home of their daughter in suburban Glendale.

"I'm going to be fine, now, just fine," said Mrs. Hoffa, who suffered a heart attack 10 months ago and had a mild seizure Wednesday. "I don't believe we've ever had a nicer Christmas."

The reunion came hours after the one-time bad boy of big labor walked out of the federal penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa., under the President's order commuting his sentence. He had served four years, nine months and 16 days of a 13-year sentence for jury tampering and mail fraud.

The conditional commutation specifies that Hoffa, 58, may not "engage in the direct or indirect management of any labor organization" until March 6, 1980—the date his full prison term would have ended.

Technically, the President shortened Hoffa's 13-year sentence to 6½ years. With time off for good behavior, Hoffa was eligible for immediate release. He had been turned down three times for parole.

In Detroit, where the Teamsters union has its headquarters, a number of labor leaders joined in praise of "the President's action."

"I believe that justice has been served in this situation and the pardon is fully deserved," said United Auto Workers President Leonard Woodcock in a telegram to Nixon.

"Jimmy Hoffa has served many years in prison," he wrote. "If it were not for his name and background, I believe he would have been paroled some time ago."

The UAW and Teamsters have united to form the Alliance for Labor Action.

Hoffa flew to St. Louis in a private jet with lawyer Morris Shenker and his son-in-law, Robert Crancer, stopping briefly in Detroit to pick up his son, James, an attorney.

Speaking with newsmen at the airport and later at the Crancer home, he said "there was nothing exceptional" in the commutation. "It was routine," he said.

Asked if he was bitter about his time in prison, Hoffa replied, "A grudge won't solve anything." But he commented on "the question of incarceration, particularly of first offenders."

He described the situation at Lewisburg as "persons jammed into a prison associated with persons the type of which they never even knew existed."

Light Plane Lands Near Wrong Bridge

HUDSON — His fuel running dangerously low, his two school-aged children in his small plane with him, daylight running out, and lost, Edgar F. Lange, of Wappingers Falls, averted a crash late Thursday afternoon by landing on Route 23, one mile east of the Rip Van Winkle Bridge. It was the only bridge in the area where preparations for Lange had not been made. Lange, flying from Springfield, Mass., to Poughkeepsie, discovered his fuel was running low and radioed for help. With him were his daughter, Karleen, 10, and his son, Andrew, 12. His call for assistance sparked a major effort by police and fire officials. Blocked off were the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge, the Mid-Hudson Bridge at Poughkeepsie and the Newburgh-Beacon Bridge. Eight pieces of fire equipment, four ambulances, and numerous police, from a wide geographical area, were involved in the effort, but Lange either didn't need it or didn't want it. He told police he was searching for the Columbia County Airport when he became lost. His only chance was the bridge approach, and he took it. He landed safely, and taxied into an automobile sales lot. State police have not yet made a final determination as to what to do with the plane. There were no injuries reported, and no damage to the plane, a light Cessna 150 high-winged two-seater. State police said the gauges on both of the plane's fuel tanks read "Empty" following the landing. The Federal Aviation Administration office in Albany has been informed of the incident. Involved in the unused traffic blockade and stand-by effort were two pieces of fire equip-

Three Killed in Hudson Valley Accidents

CATSKILL — State police at Leeds reported that the accident was discovered on Route 32, four-tenths of a mile north of 23A, some time after it had occurred. A description given had the auto traveling south on Route 32, running off the west side of the highway and up a steep hill to become lodged in a culvert. The probable cause of the accident and a coroner's verdict are pending. Trooper D. D. Ryan and Investigator J. P. Mills are investigating. Two young men were struck and killed by an auto on the shoulder of the New York State Thruway near exit 13, which leads to the Palisades Parkway, at 6:55 p.m. Thursday, according to state police at Tarrytown. They were identified as John Williams, 22, of Groton, Conn., and Robert Spendolini, 21, of East Hartford, Conn. Both were dead on arrival at the hospital. Driver of the car, Felix Rubino, 26, of Dobbs Ferry, was charged with driving while intoxicated and operating a vehicle with unsafe tires. According to police, the auto was traveling south onto the interchange when it swerved off onto the right shoulder, striking the two pedestrians. Several other accidents were reported by police in the area. In Red Hook, Joseph Valenti of New Paltz was arrested by State Police at Rhinebeck for driving while intoxicated after a two-car accident on Route 9G about 11 p. m.

Operator of the other car was William Kniffen, Red Hook. There were no injuries reported. Valenti was arraigned before Town Justice Ellmore Fraleigh and released on bail.

An one-car accident on Route 32, Town of Plattekill, resulted in lacerations of the face and possible chest injuries to Robert Redmond, 30, of New Paltz. He was admitted to Vassar Brothers Hospital for observation. State Police at Highland said he was charged with driving while intoxicated.

In Highland Benso A. Belcack, 33, of Esopus was arrested Thursday night by Highland State Police and charged with driving while intoxicated on Route 9W. He was released and will appear to answer charges on Jan. 25.

Amnesty Is Granted to 100 By City Police Commissioner

NEW YORK (AP) — In a "move to lift the morale" of his department, Police Commissioner Patrick V. Murphy has granted amnesty to 100 policemen facing departmental trial on minor, noncriminal charges.

"I would like all of you now awaiting trial on such charges to have the happiest of Christmases and to realize that a new year is starting and that we should all start it fresh and with a clean slate," he said.

At the same time, the commissioner appealed Thursday to any policemen, including those guilty of wrongdoing, to come forward and cooperate in a department investigation of police corruption.

"I will give you the fullest cooperation, as far as departmental charges are concerned, and I will also intervene for you before the district attorney," Murphy promised.

For the most part, those affected by the amnesty are accused of infractions such as being off post, having dirty uniforms or taking an unauthorized meal period. Most of the offenses are punishable by 30 days suspension.

Murphy emphasized that officers facing criminal prosecution along with those accused of unnecessary use of force, abuse of authority or repeated insubordination, were not included in the amnesty move.

Murphy said he believed the amnesty was unprecedented in the department's history. His action came in the wake of the Knapp Commission hearings, in which there was testimony of extensive police corruption.

Governor Reappoints Trustees To Senate House Association

ALBANY — Governor Rockefeller has reappointed five trustees of the Senate House Association which oversees management of the historic Senate House and Museum in Kingston.

Rockefeller reappointed Chairman John P. Remensnyder of Saugerties and Andrew S. Hickey of Kingston to terms expiring in 1976; Mrs. Allan L. Hanstein of Kingston to a term expiring in 1975; and Albert Kurdt and Fred J. Johnston of Kingston to terms ending in 1974.

There are 10 trustees, according to Senate House historian Herbert Cutler. Mrs. Hanstein noted that the terms had lapsed "over a year ago."

The venerable stone structure was already more than 100 years old when New York's first legislature met there in 1777. Until it was purchased by the State in 1888, it served several generations of the Ten Broeck family.

In 1777, the New York Provincial Congress retreated to Kingston barely ahead of the advancing British forces. It had moved from New York to White Plains to Fishkill to Kingston. The first constitution of the state was adopted at the Senate House.

One of the proudest moments of the House in recent years was the convening of the New York Senate there in April of this year.

Jack Anderson Says

The Story of the Jug and Jesus

(Editor's Note: A few years ago, Jack Anderson went to Nazareth in search of a Christmas story. He found it in the humble ruins where Mary and Joseph are believed to have brought up the Christ Child. In the digging, Anderson discovered pottery fragments which the Smithsonian Institution said must have been fashioned before Christ's time. Could it have been part of a jug that once belonged to Jesus? Captivated with this possibility, Anderson wrote the story that follows.)

WASHINGTON — "Behold, there came wise men from the east . . . And when they were come into the house, they saw the young child with Mary His mother, and fell down and worshipped Him: and when they had opened their treasures, they presented unto Him gifts:

gold, and frankincense, and myrrh." — St. Matthew 2:1, 11.

Among the offerings, set a little to one side almost apologetically, was the jug. It contained a measure of sweet oil, good for a baby's skin. Unlike the other gifts, the jug could not be called valuable; nor was it an object of great beauty.

The unknown potter who had fashioned it, turning its shape on a primitive wheel and baking it in a crude oven, probably sold it for a copper coin and was glad to get the money that would keep his family for another day.

But an inspiration that he did realize had gone into his fingers. The jug developed a grace that eyes, more sophisticated than his, could appreciate. The baking produced a rich, burnt-sugar glow that grew deeper and more glossy from the sweat of the hands that held it.

The wise men included the jug among their gifts as an afterthought; a little sweet oil, they decided, might be useful for a new born babe. But as often is the way with the small, unconsidered gift, it was to become the most deeply cherished of all.

For the Christ Child was typical of many another youngster who will scorn expensive presents and lavish his affection upon some small object that he invests with the genius of his own imagination.

When Joseph and Mary fled to Egypt to save the Baby from King Herod's vengeance, they had room only for the bare essentials. Yet somehow the jug was carried along, and it was still with them when they returned to Nazareth after the terror.

Now the Child in the cradle was growing, uttering His first words, stretching out with His hands. But there were no toys with which to fill them. What more natural than that a busy mother, looking around for something to amuse her Son, should see the jug and place it in the cradle with a few olive stones inside to make it rattle?

From that moment, the jug took on a new destiny, a new beauty, a new dignity. Was it imagination, Mary asked herself, or just a trick of light and shadow that seemed to give the vessel a richer glow when it was in her Son's hands? No other plaything made Him more happy. He slept with it; He reached for it on waking; He wanted it always to be near.

As a toddler, clutching at his skirts, He carried the jug on his trips together to the well so He could draw His own water. As a growing boy, helping Joseph at his carpentry, He had the jug always close by, containing a refreshing drink that could be poured straight out of the spout into a dusty throat.

Sometimes Mary would place a flower in the jug to give their drab home a little color. It was a humble home, part cave, part hut made of sun-dried brick. At the back was space for grape and olive presses with storage bins hewn out of the rock. Like everything else to be seen in the village, the hut seemed almost to grow out of the rugged hillsides.

Lower Galilee was a frontier in those days, and the village of Nazareth did not enjoy the best reputation. Nathanael, the guileless Israelite, was later to exclaim upon hearing of Christ: "Can any good thing come out of Nazareth?"

Yet if beggars and thieves sometimes found their way to the little village, it only deepened Jesus' sympathy for life's outcasts.

The jug went along with Jesus when, at 12, He was taken to Jerusalem for His first Passover. It became an inseparable companion, too, when He went on rambles with other boys into the hidden places of the valley.

The further they got from Nazareth, the more the squalor of the little village receded. It merged into the rugged landscape of gnarled olive trees, dark green vines, and jagged cliffs like compound fractures in the earth. The dust kicked up by the travelers, some on foot, others astride donkeys, lent a mist of enchantment. As He scanned the valley, lost in visions beyond the ken of His companions, Jesus stroked the jug and relished its cool porous surface.

Once Jesus began His ministry, the favorite jug remained behind. Yet who can say what part it may have played in His miracles? When the lame beggar stopped at the door, Mary let him drink from the jug. She could almost swear he walked away with new strength in his shriveled leg. And the blind man who sucked at its spout was later running joyfully and rubbing his eyes.

The jug did not make the last journey with Christ to the hill of Golgotha. He carried a heavier burden, the Cross on which He was to die. Now He must have longed for the jug when the sponge of vinegar was brushed against His lips. How His nailed hands must have ached for the touch of its smooth sides. Below Him, weeping, stood His mother and the others. His last thoughts were for her welfare. Seeing a disciple whom He loved standing by, Jesus called to His mother, "Woman." He cried tenderly, nodding toward the disciple John, "behold thy son!"

Then to the disciple, He said: "Behold thy mother!"

"What of the jug? It's life, too, was over. When Mary returned to Nazareth to pack her few humble belongings, she saw it last of all glowing on the shelf. Her eyes welled with tears as she clutched it lovingly to her bosom.

Then in the next instant, it slipped from her sorrowing hands and shattered on the hard earthen floor. One fragment remained after her departure as a symbol of faith perhaps as of a simpler lesson: that the smallest gift may yet be the most important of all.

The Spirit of Christmas

David Lawrence Says

Soviet's Asian Hold

WASHINGTON — The Soviet Union doesn't make public its annual budget, but there is every indication that the situation in Asia is going to cost the Kremlin more money — especially by an increase in the amount of military assistance to be distributed throughout that continent.

As a result of the India-Pakistan conflict, the Soviets feel that they now should extend their military strength in various parts of Asia. The alliance with India is just the beginning of a movement to break down the prestige of Red China and build up naval bases for Russian ships along the southern coast of the continent.

The real expense for the Soviet Union in such a policy of expanding its influence in the world is that of furnishing arms, military equipment and supplies for the land, sea and air forces of certain nations. Among these are the Arab states — notably Algeria, Egypt, Syria and Iraq — Cuba, eastern Europe, North Korea and, of course, North Vietnam. These countries and others which the Kremlin seeks to bring under its wing are looking to Moscow for economic assistance of the type called "defense support" — roads, rail facilities, port equipment, merchant shipping and the like.

Russia's latest venture in Asia made it possible for India to invade and dominate East Pakistan. This could not have been done without Soviet backing. Although the new Bengal state is theoretically being granted independence, East Pakistan is an abysmally poor area and will need all kinds of help. Since India cannot afford to provide it — the Indians say they fought the war to get the Bengal refugees back into East Pakistan from India — this, too, will be up to Moscow.

There is a feeling now that while Russia may allow the Vietnam war to come to what Americans will call a "conclusion," North Vietnam will in due time be given enough military support to take over Indo-China. The assumption is that the United States is not going to be involved again in wars in Asia. The Soviets, on the other hand, are inclined toward more military encroachment on that continent.

There is talk of reducing the number of American troops in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, and the Russians are pushing hard for this step. They are willing to promise to withdraw some of their forces from the satellite countries. But the truth is they want the United States to take its troops back across the Atlantic so that the Kremlin will have virtually a free hand in the future.

With a cloud overhanging Asia, there are also beginning to be worries as to what will occur when the strength of NATO has been weakened. Its Army at present is very small compared to the large units which can be mobilized currently by the Soviets.

The key to the whole problem of war and peace in Russia rests with the people. Millions of individuals are in military service, and the standard of living generally has not improved materially to anything like western norms. Many persons are unhappy and some day will express their discontent in an outbreak against totalitarianism.

The big task now is not merely to stress in the United Nations the importance of maintaining world peace, but to convey the facts to the peoples behind the Iron Curtain. In this era of new ways of scientific communication, peoples everywhere can find out what is blocking the road to peace. The real question is: When are the people in the satellite countries and in the Soviet Union going to learn that major wars are keeping them from getting the income they deserve? When will they unite and stop intrusion in the lives of peoples on other continents?

The United States alone cannot offset what the Soviets are planning to do with funds obviously intended for military purposes. The Red Chinese are not likely to become entangled in a war with Russia because they are at a military disadvantage — they do not have the nuclear strength to combat the enemy.

So the Soviets are enabled through the India-Pakistan quarrel to get a stronger hold on Asia. They soon will increase their military threats to some of the other countries and obtain privileges for their navy and military units which certainly will be used to tighten the Soviet grip on the weaker nations in Asia.

All this is an expensive matter for the Russians. But unless it is thoroughly exposed and the Soviet people learn the facts by radio, the dropping of leaflets and other methods, there is no way to generate the natural influences that lead to liberation movements.

Christmas and the Poor

As the majority of American families are breathlessly rushing toward their fairly sumptuous Christmas celebrations, there are some tens of thousands of homes and countless people lacking any kind of cheer.

It should be remembered, by the more fortunate, that The Infant Christ came to a stable-cave, where a poor little couple was shivering with cold and hunger. Though He Himself came with nothing, He brought them joy. He spent most of His brief days on earth among the disadvantaged. Holy Scripture says, "He pitied them . . . He had mercy on them. . . . At other times, the Savior threatened that He would have nothing to do with us and our prayers if we don't care for the deprived and suffering."

A hostility to the poor has taken place among all levels of our society and is making hearts ice-cold this Christmas. This is because of class management of welfare funds, in part. Citizens see improvident, high spenders drawing public checks, while they have had to sweat to pay taxes and see big amounts chipped away from their own pay checks, to keep such cheaters in luxury.

But nonetheless, the truly helpless poor are still with us, in their chill hovels and tenements, with their big, sad eyes, thin faces, bony legs. Not for them the delicious rapture of Christmas morning, nor the warm mystery of Christmas Eve.

We may not have much ourselves, but we have something, and we can share it. If we really want to honor the Holy Infant and draw near to the Invisible Presence, which is Christmas. And we must remember not only now, but all year. Find the poor, and help them! The Babe in the Manger did, and He came from a vastly greater distance.

Drop in Traffic Deaths

Increased use of seat belts, improved highways and driver education and certain safety features in the new automobiles, mandated by the National Highway Safety Act of 1966, have begun to have their effect on traffic safety. Some 55,330 persons died in traffic accidents in 1970, at a rate of 4.9 per 100 million vehicle miles traveled, the lowest on record, and a substantial drop from fatalities since 1963.

This downward trend continued through the first six months of 1971, when there were 1.3 per cent fewer deaths than in the first six months of 1970. The trend reversed in July. There have been small increases in most months since then. According to the Federal Department of Transportation and the National Safety Council, 45,570 persons, including pedestrians, died in motor vehicle accidents in the first 10 months of this year — compared to 45,300 killed in the first 10 months in 1970. But because miles driven were 5 per cent more, the fatalities rate declined for the fifth consecutive year.

The year-end figures may make a big difference with the holiday traffic. There is also a little understated correlation between highway accidents and economic trends. Generally when the economy goes down, traffic deaths go down and when the economy goes up, traffic deaths go up. It is easy to see why. People go out more and drink more, grow careless.

It will be several months before the picture is clear. All that is now known is that for five years, traffic deaths compared to millions of miles driven have been moving down. Safety features of new cars are coming along at a faster clip. Improved highways are growing fast, also. The fatality peak logically must continue to drop. We welcome an upturn in the economy and it is foolhardy to drive faster and pass every car simply because your paycheck is better or newly restored. Life should have meaning, whether you're rich or poor.

ELIZABETH'S PAY BOOST — The British House of Commons voted 300 to 27 for Queen Elizabeth's 100 per cent pay boost, from $1.14 million to $2.3 million a year. It reflects the rise in the cost of living of all her retainers and staff, which make up a small army of its own.

GAMBLING ON LINDSAY — John Burns quit as New York State Democratic chairman to become national coordinator of the presidential bid of New York City Mayor John V. Lindsay. That is as big a gamble as Lindsay took himself when he quit the Republican party early this year.

BERRY'S WORLD

An Age-Old Story Ever New

In the Winter solstice, the hills around the Great Temple of Solomon are like the manes of lions. The pilgrims from the North leave the Jordan Valley and climb these hills through Bethany to the dazzling beauty of Jerusalem. Joseph stopped to look. The dusty feet of the donkey rested on pale stones. The young wife, no more than 18 years of age, lifted the dusty veil from her face to look.

The Nazarene pointed to the portico of the temple, from which hung a glittering bunch of gold grapes 40 feet high. "Jerusalem," he murmured, as though the word was too sacred to be shouted. She looked up, the face lined with fatigue from the 90-mile journey and the stirring of the baby within her.

Joseph and Mary were unknowns. He was a carpenter in a land where lumber was rare. His shop was in a cave below road level in Nazareth. They lived there within a mound of earth and soil inside of which was a fire. They slept on the sod, where it was warm.

Both were good Jews. Their faith was foremost, and they kept the law. In separate dreams, they had been told that Mary was the anointed of God and would bear the long-awaited Messiah. Joseph could have pointed the finger of denunciation at her because her baby was not his. But he believed. And she believed. It was a torment to all Jews that their land was a province of Rome. Caesar Augustus had complained that the Jews were not paying a just tax. It was decided that the best way of sorting Jews would be to order each family to go to the city of his forebears in the Winter solstice. Then the Roman legionnaires could count heads properly.

Joseph was of the house of David. It did not matter that his wife was in advanced pregnancy, and that the child could not afford to halt work in his shop. The Jews dared not appeal the ruling of their king, Herod. He was a madman who had married Marianne and, when she bore him two sons, ordered the three to be killed. Caesar had said it was safer to be Herod's pig than Herod's son, but no one in Judea smiled.

The sun was far down when Joseph yanked the tether on the donkey. The city of David was Bethlehem, five miles south, and he would walk the unseen stones at night because he must find a place for his wife. It would have been a gift of a lifetime to stop at the great temple, where 7,000 Levitical priests served, but the baby would not wait.

Bethlehem was small. Joseph was stunned to find it was so crowded that Jews slept beside the trade route to Egypt. He begged for assistance, but the lame, the old and infants slept under the cold blue stars and there was no room at the inn.

It stood on a steep hill with two paths leading down the sides to a limestone cave.

There, the tribesmen and traders kept their donkeys, camels and a few unblemished sheep to be sold to Passover pilgrims. He told Miriam — called Mary — that he had permission to use the stable in the cave.

She loved him and she would go where Joseph would go, without complaint. At the entrance to the cave, they could look down into the lush valley and listen to the shepherds blow a low whistle to their flocks. The shepherds, too, had families. They lived in hollowed-out caves on the far side of the valley.

Joseph found some straw and twigs. He built a small fire at the entrance to the cave. Mary went inside alone. She knew that her three had come. He coughed outside near the crackling flame, helpless to do anything but wring his hands if she should cry out. He waited the lonely hours, replenishing the little fire.

The animals inside watched placidly. They saw the newborn son first and they heard the first thin cry. Mary was fatigued beyond exhaustion when she called, "Joseph." He helped her to wash the infant and to wrap it in swaddling clothes. He placed the firstborn son in a manger, where the heat of the breathing animals would provide additional warmth.

His wife slept on the straw. Joseph went outside to ponder the wonders of God's ways and the mysteries of His will. When the embers of the fire paled into gray, he saw a strange sight. There, beyond the mountains of Meab in the east, several stars seemed to have fused into one bright star.

Maybe it was an omen. Maybe not. His heart was jumping with joy and he could hear it thumping: "A child is born. A child is born. A child . . ."

Hero During Attica Uprising Given Freedom by Rockefeller

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Walter C. (Tiny) Swift, a convicted murderer who worked for four days treating wounded hostages and inmates during the Attica state prison uprising in September, may soon get a chance to work in medicine outside the prison walls.

And a prison guard who credited Swift with saving his life says that prospect makes him "very, very happy." "He really feels for the other person," guard Ken Jennings said Thursday. "He was risking his life but there."

Swift was one of seven persons whose sentences were commuted Thursday in Gov. Rockefeller's annual act of Christmas clemency. Under the governor's order, all will be eligible for parole next month.

Swift, 47, who has worked for the past six years as a medical aide in the prison hospital, volunteered to leave the secure area of the prison during the uprising and worked day and night to care for the injured, the governor's office said.

If he is paroled, Swift has told state officials, he hopes to get a job in the field of medicine, and perhaps seek training as a licensed practical nurse.

Dr. Warren Hanson, a physician who worked with Swift during the rebellion at Attica, said he had written strong recommendations for the convicted medic to several prospective employers. The quality of Swift's work those four tragic days was "very high," indeed, Hanson said Thursday.

Swift sewed up four men who were badly cut, even though he had had no training in suturing, Dr. Hanson said. "When I complimented him later," Hanson said, "he admitted those were the first sutures he had ever made."

Jennings said that Swift cared for him after he was injured on the first day of the rebellion.

"They had bashed me in the head with a pipe, and I was losing a lot of blood," Jennings related.

"Tiny came in and bandaged me up, and then he argued with them, told them they had to let me go, and if they didn't they'd have a dead hostage on their hands," Jennings recounted. "Some of them didn't want to let me go, but he talked them into it. The doctors told me if I'd been in there much longer, I would have died."

"If somebody on the outside will give him a chance," Jennings said, "he can make it. In my opinion, the man should never have been in prison."

Swift, a native of Johnstown,

Pa., had been serving a 40 years-to-life sentence for the murder of Nicholas Virzi, 22, in New York City on New Year's Eve, 1951. He and an accomplice had surprised Virzi and a young woman in Central Park, police said. Swift allegedly hit Virzi over the head with a baseball bat and grabbed the woman's purse, and the two fled. The purse contained $2. Virzi died two days later.

Another of the seven given clemency—all of them are convicted killers—is credited with being "exceptionally helpful and protective of correctional officers and civilian personnel" during an inmate uprising at Auburn state prison in 1970, the governor's office said. He is John Simmons, 50, serving 40 years to life for a 1947 Yonkers murder in which an accomplice killed a person they sought to rob.

Two other Attica inmates—James Mason, 71, and Louis Rivera, 51—are among those whose sentences were shortened. Mason was convicted of murder in 1927, and although he was set free by Gov. Averill Harriman in 1956 he was sent back to prison in 1959 after being convicted of committing three felonies. Rivera was convicted of murdering a man in 1948 during a robbery in Buffalo.

Al Keshner, 62, was imprisoned at Wallkill state prison after being convicted of murder in 1952. During his trial he testified that because of business losses he had laid plans to burn down his New York City factory loft in order to collect insurance. Two of his accomplices and a policeman were killed in the fire. Officials said he plans to return to Brooklyn to live with his family.

Miss Betty Joy Ebert, 27, was 16 years old when she ran away from home in New Orleans in 1962. She reached Albany, officials said, and met a man who drove her to neighborhood Rensselaer County. She shot him to death and took his car. While at Westfield State Farm in New Bedford she has been a "model prisoner," correction authorities reported, earning her high school equivalency certificate and winning high marks in training for secretarial and data processing jobs.

John Closter, 30, was sent to Green Haven state prison in 1961 after being sentenced to 25 to 50 years for a Nassau County grocery store robbery in which an accomplice killed a police man. A spinal tumor made him a quadriplegic, and his paralysis was the principal reason for his sentence cut, the governor's office said.

Leone Elected President of Italy

ELECTION ROME (AP) — Giovanni Leone, a Christian Democrat, was elected today as Italy's sixth president, ending a 15-day deadlock that had touched off fist fights in Parliament.

The mild-mannered Naples criminal lawyer won with 518 votes, 13 over the simple majority of 505 required.

Leone, 63, twice premier in a long political career, won on a record 23rd ballot.

Runner-up was veteran Socialist Pietro Nenni, 80, who had the solid support of his own Socialist party and the Communists.

Leone, a man of dead center, had almost all the votes of his own rivalry ridden Christian Democratic party and those of the Democratic Socialists, Liberals and Republicans.

Leone had fallen one vote short of a majority in a violence-marred vote Thursday night.

Communists and Christian Democrats traded pushes and punches as electors from all sectors exploded in an uproar of insults. Husky ushers bodily carried away the most violent deputies and senators.

It was the second day in a row that disorders marred the 16-day-old election, a record in Italy's 25 years as a republic. Wednesday a shouting match between left-wingers and the Christian Democrats forced the chamber president to suspend the voting.

VOTING IN ITALY — Giovanni Leone (L) a 63-year-old Christian Democrat and two-time premier, and veteran Socialist Pietro Nenni (R) cast their ballots. Leone was elected as Italy's sixth president. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Coast Guard Issues Report On Collision

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Coast Guard officials here today reported a collision between an American freighter and a Russian fishing trawler. The collision took place at 11 p.m. Thursday off the coast from the Barnegat Lighthouse. The Coast Guard said no injuries were reported.

The American vessel, the Jefferson Davis, was gashed and the Russian ship reported "severe damages below the waterline," according to a Coast Guard spokesman. The Coast Guard spokesman said contact with the trawler was made difficult because of the language barrier, but identified it as the trawler Auiadag. According to the spokesman, on first contact the Russian vessel reported there had been no damage, but in later radio communications indicated that there was damage. The Jefferson Davis, after suffering a ten-foot gash in her port side, limped toward New York Harbor at a speed of four knots.

Coast Guard cutters from various stations along the New Jersey shoreline escorted the vessel.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

By JIM GILPATRIC

Christmas comes but once a year. Many people say once is enough. But is it? Really?

What's wrong with accepting the spirit of Christmas as a state of mind; an every day way of life? What's wrong with having that spirit in our hearts every day? What's wrong with appreciating love of family, warmth of friendships, God's blessings every day? What's wrong with an every day gift giving of SELF— and ejecting selfishness and greed? What's wrong in allowing the true significance of Christmas to dominate our hearts and minds every day? What's wrong in avoiding drabness and living in an atmosphere of Christian conviviality every day? What's wrong with a softening of attitude towards others every day? What's wrong in relying on—"Yet in the dark street shineth the everlasting light; the hopes and fears of all the years are met in Thee tonight?" What's wrong in accepting that glorious gift, that eternal truth and joy every day?

We hope all of you who read these thoughts have a Very Merry Christmas; that you enjoy the meaning and spirit of Christmas every day—from this Christmas to the next.

No Control Seen Over Interest Rates

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Cost of Living Council has refused to impose controls over interest rates "at this time" but says voluntary restraints will be used in the future.

The council's statement Thursday was immediately criticized by House Banking and Currency Committee Chairman Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., who called it a "sorry holiday greeting to millions of customers."

Patman also accused President Nixon of violating the Economic Stabilization Act by allowing the council to exempt all forms of interest rates without giving a reason for each exemption.

The act requires the President to either take action to stabilize interest rates or make a finding that such action is not

Trial of Black Panthers, Convictions and Acquittals

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A declared a mistrial on that trial of 12 Black Panthers in connection with a shootout between Panthers and police has ended with verdicts of:

- Conviction of nine for conspiracy to possess contraband weapons;
- Acquittal of eight on the most serious charge, conspiracy to murder Los Angeles policemen;
- A number of acquittals on lesser assault charges.
- Acquittal of two defendants on all charges.

Jury disagreement on a charge of conspiracy to commit assault with a deadly weapon on police officers forced led to a mistrial on that count for eight defendants.

The jury of eight women and four men also reported itself deadlocked after the stormy seven-month trial on one count of weapons conspiracy against one defendant, and the judge

Transit Mediators Meet With Lindsay

NEW YORK (AP) — Mediators have told Mayor John V. Lindsay they expect contract talks with the city's 40,000 transit workers will continue unresolved until very close to a New Year's Eve deadline.

The mediators met with Lindsay Thursday at City Hall to discuss the status of the biennial negotiations, in which the subway and bus workers are seeking a 30 per cent wage hike.

One of the three mediators, Michael I. Sovern, dean of the Columbia University Law

Rochester Man Is Sentenced In Murder Case

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — A Rochester man convicted of murder last month faces 15 years to life in Attica Correctional Facility.

Simon Douglas Jr., 26, was sentenced Thursday by Judge George D. Ogden in Monroe County Court.

Douglas was found guilty in the stabbing death of Albert Wilson, 45, of Rochester. Police said Douglas stabbed Wilson with a 12-inch knife in a fight April 29.

Phone Books Could Save Forest Lands

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—If all the telephone books in New York State were recycled as they become outdated each year, 10 million trees and 4,000 acres of forest land could be saved.

Environmental Conservation Commissioner Henry L. Diamond said Thursday.

Diamond congratulated the Albany (district of the New York Telephone Co. for recycling its old books this year, and voiced the hope the plan would work statewide.

If all the Albany area books are reclaimed, he said, "it will save 5,000 trees and 15-20 acres of managed forest land."

"It will mean a new life for a half-million pounds of paper and, just as important, it means that a half million pounds won't have to be handled and disposed of as garbage."

"If it works here, then the program may be expanded to the rest of the state. Then we would be talking about saving 10 million trees and 4,000 acres of forest land."

The recycling project has also been announced for Westchester County.

Dutchess Man Arrested on Kidnap Charge

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. (AP) — Charles Stahl, 29, of this city was arrested Thursday on charges of second degree kidnap, third degree escape, second degree assault on an officer and passing a bad check, police said.

Police said an officer attempted to arrest Stahl at his home when the man allegedly bolted from police. They said he assaulted the officer as well.

The kidnap charge stemmed, they said, from an incident Dec. 19 involving an unidentified young woman. Police said Stahl forced the woman at knifepoint from a parking lot at Vassar Brothers Hospital.

They said he forced her to drive into a secluded area where he was accused of criminally assaulting her.

Stahl was held at Dutchess County Jail in lieu of $40,000 bail.

Hints from Heloise

By HELOISE CRUISE

It's the Spirit Not the Size

DEAR HELOISE: We used to have a large Christmas tree with large ornaments, but now we prefer a smaller table-sized tree.

Of course, when we first decided this, all our ornaments were too large. So I looked through my jewelry drawer for something to use as small ornaments, and found long, shining jeweled earrings, gold key holders with various interesting dangles and tiny souvenir figures from our travels. It made the tree very personal.

Since I seldom throw anything out, I had a plastic bag filled with the plastic clip-tops from hair rollers you know the kind. They're usually pink, the same length as the roller, and fit over the roller like a clamp. (I use various sized rollers, but prefer to hold them in place with plastic pins rather than the clamps that come with them.)

Three different sizes of charming ornaments after I had sprayed them with gold and silver paint, and sprinkled them with glitter while the paint was wet. Then I took different-colored jewels from old costume jewelry and glued them on for a festive, sparkling look.

The addition of small lights completed our tree and gave added sparkle to the glitter of the ornaments and jewels. We're so proud of our tree decorations are made of things we already had in our home!

HELEN W. LYMAN

DEAR HELOISE:

Have you ever thought of saving the corrugated paper cartons light bulbs come in? I use them as packing objects, either for storage or mailing.

I made this discovery once when wrapping a package and I didn't have enough crumpled tissue paper to finish the job. Then it came to me. I had several "empties" on the shelf that I'd neglected to throw away.

So now I always use these cartons (plus crumpled paper as a filler in and around them). Works perfectly. I never throw these cartons away any more. If they're good enough for light bulbs, they'll do the trick for cushioning almost anything breakable. Just be sure it is snugly packed. . . . L.P.

DEAR HELOISE:

When large quantities of fruits or vegetables must be peeled by hand, I protect the finger which directs the paring knife with a piece of adhesive tape.

MRS. JOSIE BUTERO

DEAR HELOISE:

I love your column in the paper. Please keep up the good works. . . it's so helpful to me.

So God bless, guide and direct you in the way He'd want you to go.

MRS. LEWIS LEYSTER

Oh, Mrs. Leyster, on this blessed Christmas Eve, your dear words fill my eyes with grateful tears, and my heart with warm thanks for folks like you.

This is a night to love one another, and I can only wish each and everyone of you all, good health, peace of mind, and happiness.

YOUR HELOISE

CHRISTMAS FOR EVERYONE — Mrs. Howard Bodie, church school superintendent at Trinity United Methodist Church, has announced that holiday baskets of fruits and candy will be delivered to nursing homes in the Kingston area this year. The church school has chosen this way to remember senior citizens during the holiday season. One of the baskets was delivered this week to the Garry Nursing Home, West Chestnut Street. On hand were (L-R) Pat Boughton, staff member; Louis Cerruto, resident; and Mrs. Bodie. (Freeman photo by Haines)

Dear Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-
N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: My husband has a habit of making big plans and then at the last moment, he changes his mind. For instance: For months he had me out looking for a new home, telling me if I found anything interesting he would go look at it. We finally narrowed it down to one house. My husband saw it and said it was perfect. He made an offer on it, and gave the realtor a check which he told him to hold a week before depositing.

In the meantime, his offer was accepted, the wife of the man who was being transferred quit her job, the realtor got a man lined up to give us a loan on our present home to make a down payment, and I was walking on air. Then my husband changed his mind!

A month ago my husband did exactly the same thing with a new car! I am getting batty from his sudden changes in mind. One time he actually had a double door refrigerator delivered, and cancelled it after all my friends had seen it.

I am 47 and he is 52, and we've been married 3 years, so we aren't kids.

Will you please tell me what is the matter with this man? He disappointed me so many times.

HAD IT

DEAR HAD IT: Cold feet and frozen assets, perhaps. (P.S. You can spare yourself further disappointments by realizing that he's all talk and no action, and never getting your hopes up.)

DEAR ABBY: I'm glad you told "LONELY" whose husband was in Korea to keep writing to him every day even tho she doesn't hear from him that regularly.

My husband was in Korea in the 1950s and I used to get very lonely and depressed if I didn't get a letter from him every day, too. Well, I did what "Lonely Wife" is considering, but I urge her NOT to! I decided to quit writing to my husband for a few days to give him a taste of his own medicine. I did this several times, and each time, within a few days, I would receive two and three letters in one delivery. I later learned that their mail is not picked up nor delivered daily over there.

After my husband came home he told me there had been days when he had not heard from me, even tho I knew I had mailed a letter every day.

Anyone who has been in the service can tell you that being forgotten at mail call is one of the roughest things a guy has to take.

"BEEN LONELY, TOO"

Jet-Dodging German Shepard Ends Three-Day Adventure

By JON POWERS

MILTON

His Christmas adventure over, Larry today is resting comfortably at his home in Milton. Larry is a prize German shepherd dog, who spent three harrowing days this week dodging jets and cars at New York City's Kennedy International Airport.

The wandering pooch was the object of a bizarre doghunt that resembled the best of the Keystone Cops. Independent to the end, Larry finally returned when he was good and ready. It all began Sunday morning when Larry apparently decided that the skies of United weren't all that friendly. He escaped from the grips of his handlers while being loaded into a plane bound for Seattle, Wash.

Then the chase began, and for good reason. Laramie of Jomar (Larry's real name) is valued at $15,000, and insured for $5,000. His potential as a champion show dog reportedly exceeds monetary limitations. The trackers almost put an end to the search on Monday, when a United Airlines employee cornered the 110-pound fugitive and, with some difficulty, hoisted Larry into his arms. But, with a flailing of paws and a disdainful "woof," Larry escaped his captor and raced out of the terminal.

At one point, Larry led a merry chase through the buildings at Kennedy, followed by employees of several airlines, Port Authority policemen, volunteers from the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and two imported tracking dogs.

But it all ended Tuesday night, when at 11 p. m. a United Airlines employee found Larry sitting nonchalantly beside the same truck that first brought him to the Kennedy terminal. The tired and hungry dog this time offered no resistance.

By that time, his owner, Jim Sauls of Milton, had given up hope. "I don't see how he survived," Sauls told The Freeman, "especially in all that traffic. I really didn't think we'd find him again."

Sauls, an IBM Poughkeepsie employee, explained that he purchased Larry last Thursday from a breeder in Detroit, and was planning to ship him to Seattle on Sunday for a tour of the show circuits on the west coast. Larry's now infamous escape spoiled those plans.

"I think he deserves a rest as a hobby, and he runs a small 10-dog kennel at his Southern Ulster County home. Larry is the 'pick of the litter.' Which means, like it or not, Larry will be heading west once again in search of a blue ribbon but not for at least a week. "I think he deserves a rest now," said Sauls.

Chairman of Cancer Panel Warns Against Miracles

WASHINGTON (AP) — The man picked by President Nixon to oversee the government's new crusade against cancer cautions against expecting "any short-term miracles" from the massive, multibillion-dollar effort.

"I think it would be a great mistake to build up false hopes, to talk about crash programs or to put success in any time frame," said Benno C. Schmidt in an interview after he was named chairman of the President's Cancer Panel.

"All we can promise the American people is that we will give them the very best program American science can provide."

Nixon made the same point Thursday when he signed the National Cancer Act and launched what he called "an unprecedented attack" and "a great crusade" against the disease which each year kills more Americans than died in combat during all of World War II.

"We would not want to raise false hopes by simply the signing of an act," Nixon told the congressmen, public officials and health group leaders at the bill-signing ceremony, "but we can say this:

"That for those who have cancer, and who are looking for success in this field, they at least can have the assurance that everything that can be done by government, everything that can be done by voluntary agencies in this great, powerful, rich country, now will be done and that will give some hope and we hope those hopes will not be disappointed."

Later, interviewed by telephone in his New York office, Schmidt said he believes the legislation "will give us the opportunity and the foundation to mount a sustained program."

With the $1.6 billion authorized by the act, Schmidt said, programs under way at the National Cancer Institute and National Institutes of Health can be accelerated.

"We are not talking about abandoning any existing programs. We won't be stopping, then re-starting. We will simply be building on" existing programs, he said.

Schmidt will head the three-man panel—answering to the President—which will monitor the expanded program. He said he expects Nixon to name the panel's other two members soon, as well as members to the National Cancer Advisory Board.

AP Expert Likes Colts

By MIKE RATHET Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (AP) — The National Football League playoffs begin this weekend and the Baltimore Colts begin defense of their Super Bowl crown after having had to defend their integrity for their second-place finish in American Conference East.

So look for the Colts to blast the Browns off the field in answer to their critics.

In the other playoffs, it looks from here like Dallas can topple Minnesota, Kansas City handle Miami and Washington sting San Francisco.

On the Air

SATURDAY
Dallas at Minnesota 1 p.m.
CBS—Ch. 2, 3, 10
Miami at Kansas City 4 p.m.
NBC—Ch. 4, 6

SUNDAY
Baltimore at Cleveland 1 p.m.
NBC—Ch. 4, 6
Washington at San Francisco 4 p.m. CBS—Ch. 2, 3, 10

Here's a rundown of each game, noting that last week's predictions produced a best-of-the-season 10-3 record:

SATURDAY'S GAMES
Dallas 24, Minnesota 17—The Cowboys have been amazing since Roger Staubach took over at quarterback, reeling off seven consecutive victories. They led the NFL in scoring during the regular season with 406 points and should be able to move the ball despite the fact the Vikings allowed a league low of 139 points. Dallas just has too many weapons for Minnesota to stop.

Kansas City 34, Miami 24—The Chiefs and Dolphins have met six times previously and the score is 6-0 Kansas City. With Otis Taylor as the key weapon, the Chiefs should make it seven in succession. But Kansas City will have to shut down Miami's Larry Csonka-Jim Kilick running combination.

SUNDAY'S GAMES
Baltimore 31, Cleveland 10—The Browns won their last five, with running back Leroy Kelly keying the attack, but Cleveland lacks enough weapons to contend with the Baltimore defense. The Colts, meanwhile, have Johnny Unitas at quarterback and there's no better under the pressure of the big ones.

Washington 27, San Francisco 24—The key here could be Larry Brown, the Redskin running back who has returned to top form after leg problems midway of the season. Washington quarterback Billy Kilmer also should enjoy getting back at the 49ers, his first team. A good day by John Brodie, now-ever, could win it for San Francisco.

Weary Knicks Sweep the Coast

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — "Pride and a good home town crowd is what gave them a lift tonight," said Walt Frazier.

But Frazier made sure the lift wasn't enough. He sank four free throws in the final 33 seconds to give the New York Knickerbockers a 120-117 National Basketball Association victory over the Portland Trail Blazers in Memorial Coliseum Thursday night.

The last time the Blazers met the Knicks, in Madison Square Garden two weeks ago, they took a 130-102 shellacking.

"You can't humiliate a team that badly and expect to beat them by a lot of points the second time," said Frazier after Thursday night's game.

Portland rallied early in the fourth quarter, chipping away an 11-point New York lead to three points.

Frazier, who led the winners with 36 points, slowed the pace in the last two minutes to keep the Blazers from overtaking the Knicks.

Portland's fourth quarter drive was aided by the defense of Sidney Wicks on Jerry Lucas, whose outside shooting in the third period had helped send the Knicks ahead 94-83.

Wicks moved to center for the Blazers and Lucas took only two shots in the last period.

Wicks, who scored only 10 points against the Knicks in New York, got 26 points and 12 rebounds in a 43-minute period Thursday night.

"His outside shot is a lot better than I imagined," said Lucas of Wicks. "If you're moving toward him when he has the ball, he'll drive right by you and score easily."

A rebound shot by Wicks in the last two minutes tightened New York's lead to five points, 116-111. After a 24-second violation on the Knicks, Wicks drove the baseline for another basket, making it 116-113.

At that point Knicks' Coach Red Holzman instructed Frazier to keep the ball and kill time.

In desperation, the Blazers fouled Frazier twice in the final 33 seconds and he hit all four free throws.

A Portland basket by Stan McKenzie with one second left, narrowed the span to 120-117.

In the other two National Basketball Association games Thursday night, Cleveland edged Atlanta 115-110 and Chicago downed Phoenix 117-108 in overtime.

A former Atlanta player, Butch Beard, scored 30 points to spark the Cavaliers. Walt Wesley also had 30 for Cleveland, John Johnson added 24 and Bingo Smith 20.

Smith put Cleveland ahead to stay with a 12-foot jumper, breaking a 74-74 tie in the final two minutes of the third period.

The Suns led Chicago by as much as 11 points in the second half, but after Phoenix forward Connie Hawkins fouled out with 2:24 remaining, the Bulls went ahead 98-96 on a basket by Jim King with 1:08 to go.

Dick Van Arsdale, who led all scorers with 28 points, sent the game into overtime with 13 seconds left, but Chicago outscored the Suns 19-10 in the extra period.

Brisker Tops Nets

By BRUCE LOWITT Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (AP) — "I wasn't trying to prove anything, either to myself or anybody else," John Brisker commented. "It's just one of those things that happens."

What happened Thursday night, to the astonishment of the New York Nets, is that Brisker, with devastating accuracy from both the field and free throw line, all but single-handedly powered the Pittsburgh Condors to a 124-123 overtime victory.

The contest was the finale of an American Basketball Association doubleheader that attracted a vocal crowd of 8,093 fans to Madison Square Garden.

In the opener of the twin bill, the Floridians rolled over the Carolina Cougars 125-109. And in other ABA action, Kentucky whipped Virginia 139-123, Utah beat Memphis 112-104 and Indiana edged Denver 104-101.

Brisker, a 6-foot-5, third-year star with the Condors, went into the fourth quarter with just 16 points and the Nets, who had led by as many as a dozen points, went into it holding a 79-75 margin.

But suddenly Brisker was unstoppable. In one stretch he bombed in nine successive field goals and capped his 20-point period with a pair of three-point baskets, the latter coming with 36 seconds left in regulation time to knot the score at 109-109 and send the game into overtime.

Then the Nets decided to lean on him. That wasn't enough. In the extra period, with the crowd chanting "Brisker, Brisker!" and New York players draped all over him, he couldn't hit a field goal—but his eight free throws—he hit 12 of 12 in the game—kept the Condors in contention.

With 10 seconds to play and the Nets leading 123-122, he tried his last shot and missed. But George Thompson, a 6-2 guard, came up with the rebound and flipped it in with seven seconds to play for the winning basket.

Thompson finished with 30 points to back up Brisker's 44 and George Carter added 22 for the Condors while Bill Melchionni had 32 and Billy Paultz had 26 for the Nets.

"These are good fans," Brisker said. "They were all fired up and that got me fired up. It doesn't seem to matter whether you're playing on their team or against them—they still appreciate good play. That's what makes them so good."

Punch Happy

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Buffalo Coach Punch Imlach may have been happy with a 4-4 tie against Boston Thursday night but Bruin Coach Tom Johnson was not.

"Anytime I can tie the Boston Bruins, I'm satisfied," declared Imlach, whose team climbed out of a tie with Vancouver for the National Hockey League's East Division cellar.

"We make a lot of clubs look good," sighed Johnson, whose Bruins are four points behind New York and one back of Montreal in the race for the NHL East title.

blew a 3-1 lead and trailed 4-3, salvaged a tie on a third-period goal by Ken Hodge.

Boston took the early lead on goals by Derek Sanderson, Reg Leach and Phil Esposito.

The Sabres-Bruins game was the only National Hockey League contest played Thursday night.

"I think Boston is the best team in the league," stated Imlach. "They have a lot of power. I would like to win, but let's just say I'm pretty satisfied with the tie."

Johnson was not.

"We relaxed a little after we got a two-goal lead," the Bruins mentor said. "We took it easy a little, then couldn't get going again."

The Bruins outshot Buffalo 39-28, but Sabres' goalie Dave Dryden was up to the challenge.

Rhinebeck Hoopsters Win Third

RHINEBECK Rhinebeck notched its third straight Bi-Valley League victory Wednesday, thumping Pine Plains 56-36. Paul Kane hit for 21 points to lead the winners.

The Indians built a seven-point lead at the half, then ran away from their foes in the final two periods. Strong rebounding by Jim Yarbrough and Rich Foss gave Rhinebeck control of the boards and Joe Corcoran and Greg Shaw contributed 11 points apiece to ice the game.

Rhinebeck's tough defense limited the Bombers to 13 field goals. The Indians are now in a first-place tie with Millbrook for the league lead.

In the JV contest, it was Rhinebeck again, this time 40-23. Rich Snyder scored eight for game honors.

Third year Coach Charlie Sharman is holding the reins of a winner. Last season Rhinebeck struggled to a 7-10 record, but seven members of that team are back including three of the starters.

Co-captains Jim Yarbrough and Joe Corcoran, both seniors, head the list. Yarbrough is a 5-3 leaper, the team's top rebounder and possessor of good second efforts on the offensive boards. Corcoran holds down the backcourt, and is a fine ball handler and field general.

Ace of the squad, though, is only a sophomore. As a freshman last year, Paul Kane averaged 16 points and was named to the All-Bi-Valley Team. So far this year, Paul's had totals of 17, 19 and 21, and appears on his way to an even better season.

Junior Greg Shaw, a rugged rebounder, and Rich Foss, who led last year's junior varsity in scoring and rebounding, complete the starting five.

Other returnees are Jim Decker, 6-2, Dave Kallop, 5-10, and Dave Cook, who has been hindered recently with knee trouble.

Rhinebeck has good size on the bench. Backing up Foss's 6-4 is Eliot Sussin at 6-3 and Red Hook transfer Dave Dapson at 6-1. Juniors John Neal and Kevin Kipp complete the roster.

UCC Matmen Finish 6th

VALHALLA
Ulster County Community College finished sixth in a nine-team field at the Westchester County Community College wrestling tournament here Thursday but Senators Coach Mark Cranfield was happy with what he saw.

"I'm pleased with the way the boys wrestled," Cranfield commented. "Some of them were eliminated early because they came up against some real tough competition and all earned plenty of experience."

The Senators did have one champion as former Rondout Valley High School star Pete Nekos grabbed the 118-pound-class crown. Nekos received a bye into the semi-finals, then pinned Bill Sherman of Middlesex, N. J., Community in 37 seconds and beat Mark Hewitt of Catonsville, Md., Community by a fall in 3:12. Hewitt had been runner-up in the Maryland High School finals last year and was undefeated this season.

Another Rondout grad, Tom Coddington, made his debut for Ulster in the 126-pound class and split four matches. Coddington first took the measure of Tom DeFilippis of Englewood Cliffs, N. J., 6-0. Next he was beaten by top seeded Joe Soell of Ocean, N. J., by a pin in 2:55. Moved into the consolation bracket, Coddington scored an overtime win over Alan Smith of Catonsville. The score-

Peter said the contract was not offered until late Thursday afternoon. Concerning his contract with Rice, Peter said, "I don't think there will be any problem."

The whole thing started Wednesday when Ed Hughes was fired as Houston's head coach in a dispute with Adams and General Manager John Breen.

"My deal with Peter was if Ed Hughes agreed to stay, I'd release him," Adams said. "Ed chose not to resolve our one obstacle, Peter is still committed to me, to coach the Oilers. I would guess he will have to get his release (from Rice)."

Peter, contacted in Montgomery, Ala., where he is a coach in the Blue-Gray All-Star football game, said he had made the commitment to the Oilers.

But Peter said he also talked with Denver concerning the Broncos job.

"I talked to Denver because I was convinced that Ed Hughes was going to remain with the Oilers," Peter said.

Saratoga State Plant Plans to Reopen

ALBANY, N. Y. (UPI)—The state-owned bottling plant at Saratoga Springs, closed earlier this year in an economy move, will be re-opened under contract to a private company, it was announced Thursday night. Joseph M. Fennell, director of the Saratoga Springs Commission, said the state would contract soon to have two of the Spa's famous mineral waters bottled and distributed. "It is hoped that the successful contractor will be able to establish distribution channels into the various markets throughout the state so that those have been deprived of the waters will again find them in their neighborhood stores," Fennell said. The waters to be bottled are State Seal and Geyser, the most popular of Saratoga's waters.

West Coast Dockmen Seen Near Agreement

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A West Coast dock agreement is likely within a new walkout by 13,000 longshore union workers in 24 Pacific ports, government sources say. Government and union sources who insisted they were not identified said there was evidence of genuine will on both sides to try for an agreement. And in Washington, J. Curtis Counts, Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service director, announced Thursday that union and employer negotiators had agreed to extend the old longshore contract until Jan. 10. This avoided the possibility of a strike on Christmas Day, the expiration date of an 80-day Taft-Hartley cooling-off period injunction obtained by President Nixon. The injunction invoked Oct. 6 ended a 100-day walkout which

County Execs Set Meeting

GOSHEN, N.Y. (AP) — Louis V. Mills, Orange County executive, announced Thursday that county executives from the 12 largest counties would meet in Albany Monday with leaders of the legislature to discuss county financial problems. Mills said the purpose of the meeting was simply to defend the counties' reimbursement schedule. Gov. Rockefeller has proposed delaying state aid payments from the end of the current fiscal year into the beginning of the next fiscal year. The executives plan to discuss their position at a breakfast at the DeWitt Clinton Hotel before meeting with Assembly Speaker Perry B. Duryea Jr. and Senate Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges. Mills noted that state aid changes cost his county almost $1 million in the current fiscal year.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The daytime is beautiful for interesting communications, family gatherings, with thoughts on how to attain the concord typified by the Prince of Peace, whose principles we may follow if we wish. The evening can bring interesting changes with the prospect of greater progress in the future. Be Happy.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You are inspired today to achieve goals that have been impossible in the past. Make this a most Merry and Happy Christmas with kin. Show that your heart is in the right place.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) The prevailing Christmas Spirit can help smooth out relationships with others. Anything of a social nature is likely to turn out in your favor. Spend only what you can afford.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Get into the hustle and bustle of this delightful day and enjoy yourself. Family must come first, but don't forget your good friends. Bring out your true nature.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) New friends can give inspiring ideas that will enhance your future. Listen carefully to what they have to say. Concentrate upon the meaning of this day and live up to its spirit.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Follow your intuition and you will find new ways to become more efficient in the future. You can have true harmony with mate after a hectic morning. Try to make children happy.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Use your mentality for planning how to achieve more affluence. Be sure to take steps along ethical lines. Become a more dynamic person. This could be a most wonderful evening.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY...

he or she will be one of those fascinating young people whose mind will be buzzing with many new ideas. Make sure your youngster has the best possible education. Teach early to make plans adequately and then to follow through on them. Any impatience here has to be channeled in the right direction. Give religious and ethical training.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Walt Disney popularized animated cartoons with his film productions of "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," "Pinocchio," "Bambi," "Fantasia" and "Cinderella." The World Almanac notes that "Snow White," the first full-length animated cartoon, required about 2 million drawings and employed 600 artists.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

COOLNESS: (Q.) My best friend got married seven months ago. She has problems with her husband. He isn't a good worker. He hasn't worked but two weeks since they got married. She is 19. I am 18. Her husband's brother is my boy friend.

Not long ago I called her and suggested that she and her husband and my boy friend and I go out together. She said, "Why don't you two go on out together and forget about us?" I took the hint.

She hasn't called me since. I just can't believe my best friend doesn't want me as a friend any more. What do you think of the way she is acting?—Hurt in Illinois.

(A.) I think your relationship has changed. Part of it is the fact of her marriage. Part of it is the problems she acquired with it.

There may be times when she will welcome an invitation from you or when she will invite you herself. There may be times when she won't. It will depend. Try to understand. Never pressure her. Never criticize her because things have changed.

Recognize the change and live with it, and you will keep a friend, but not the kind of friend she used to be. Fight it and you will lose a friend.

FOR A BOY: (Q.) I have been going with this boy for two months now. For my birthday he gave me a ring. His birthday is coming up and so is Christmas. What would be a nice present for him? I have heard that it is not right to give a boy clothes unless you are engaged. I am 14 and he is nearly 16.—Planning in Louisiana.

(A.) For your age group, I usually suggest a good picture of the girl in an attractive tailored frame.

I do not think some clothing is too intimate for teen gifts. A sweater vest is a very nice thing to give a boy.

TV Networks Get Much Mail

NEW YORK (AP) — Did you ever have the impulse to rip off a letter to a television network and tell it exactly what you thought—good or bad—about a program?

If you followed through, chances are that you are a woman of average education and income (more than half the letter writers are women), live in a large city in the Northeast and either wanted to complain, make a general comment or receive some information.

The National Broadcasting Company recently constructed a portrait of its typical correspondent based on a random sampling of viewer mail received over three months. After discarding anonymous, crackpot, obscene and organized-campaign letters, every 10th communication was analyzed.

Betty Hoffman, manager of the network's Corporate Information Department, said that over a year NBC and its executives receive more than 80,000 letters. That is exclusive of hundreds of thousands of pieces of mail sent directly to specific shows and their performers. The totals presumably are matched by the network's two competitors.

"About 20 per cent is favorable mail and about 26 per cent is complaints," Mrs. Hoffman said.

When program cancellations were reported in November, protest mail jumped 63 per cent above the October total. The strongest concern was the dropping of "The Funny Side" and "Sarge."

"But that was light compared with the volume last spring about the cancellations of 'The Senator' and 'High Chaparral,'" she said.

Letters are always answered when they carry a name and address. In addition, Mrs. Hoffman and her staff of four handle telephone calls to the network—about 40,000 a year and mostly from the New York metropolitan area. They are carefully checked since they are available before the letters and are regarded by the network as clues about audience reaction elsewhere.

"The most emotional outburst was in the fall of 1969 when the network's two competitors were reported to have canceled 'The 5,000 Fingers of Dr. T.' and 'Popeye Cartoons'."

Pakistani President Names 11-Man Cabinet

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

President Zulfikar Ali Bhutto tightened his grip on Pakistan today by naming an 11-member, leftist-oriented cabinet drawn mainly from his powerful Pakistan Peoples Party. In India, Prime Minister Indira Gandhi warned that her government would not tolerate meddling by world powers in the India-Pakistan dispute. Although she mentioned no country by name, her remarks were widely interpreted as directed against the United States.

Bhutto, who took power five days ago from the military regime of Gen. Agha Mohammed Yahya Khan, retained the key portfolios of defense, foreign affairs, interior and provincial affairs, indicating he would take day-to-day charge of his nation's campaign to win back East Pakistan, lost in the 14-day war with India.

The Pakistani president also announced he would appoint a commission of inquiry to look into the causes of the war.

Five of the new cabinet ministers were drawn from the Punjab where Bhutto's party is strong and only three of the ministers, including Vice President Nurul Amin, did not belong to the Pakistan Peoples Party.

Amin, 78, is the only East Pakistani in the cabinet. However, Bhutto said he plans to name at least three more ministers, including an East Pakistani.

Mrs. Gandhi, speaking in the Indian state of Punjab, was quoted by the government radio as saying her country's victory had "upset the calculations of some powers."

"There have been attempts at interference by some powers and India will not tolerate it," Mrs. Gandhi said. She added that she was not making a threat, but that she would not accept threats from others either.

In Cairo, Pakistan was reported to have asked Egypt to use its good offices with India to resolve "urgent humanitarian problems" arising from the war.

Cairo's semi-official Al Ahram newspaper said Pakistani Ambassador Mohamed Malik made the request in a meeting with Murad Ghaleb, Egyptian minister of state for foreign affairs. Ghaleb later met with India's charge d'affaires, the newspaper said, and the Indian envoy raised the question of Egypt's mediatory role.

formal Egyptian recognition of Bangladesh, the newly proclaimed nation in East Pakistan. Ghaleb was quoted as replying that such recognition at present would "complicate the situation" and jeopardize Egypt's mediatory role.

Peace in Vietnam For 24-Hour Period

SAIGON (AP) — American and South Vietnamese forces halted operations in South Vietnam today for a 24-hour Christmas cease fire and the U.S. command announced American warplanes attacked another enemy air defense radar site inside North Vietnam.

The allied cease-fire went into effect at 6 p.m. Saigon time, 17 hours after the Viet Cong's unilateral truce of 72 hours began.

But the South Vietnamese command reported that enemy forces staged two attacks during the first hour of the Viet Cong cease-fire, killing three Saigon soldiers and wounding six.

There were no attacks reported against U.S. forces.

Today's strike, and three others Thursday raised to 106 the number of American air strikes inside North Vietnam this year, including 17 in the past two weeks. The latest strike was five miles from the Laos border.

The sudden increase in American attacks is apparently in reaction to the loss of four U.S. fighter-bombers over Laos and North Vietnam last weekend.

One of Thursday's strikes inside North Vietnam was 25 miles from the Laos border and the others were 12 and 19 miles from the border. The U.S. Command claimed the three fighter escorts that carried out the raids were protecting American planes conducting operation over Laos.

A communique said each of the F105 fired an air-to-ground missile at radar sites 53 and 82 miles northwest of the coastal city of Vinh and 26 miles west of Dong Hoi with unknown results. The command said there was no damage to U.S. aircraft.

The command said the raids were carried out against "the hostile actions of enemy radar sites located in North Vietnam."

When asked to explain what the hostile actions were, a command spokesman said he did not know.

It appeared that U.S. pilots have been given broader latitude to fire first.

U.S. pilots are attacking targets they previously ignored and reacting quicker to indirect threats posted by North Vietnamese radar stations.

Hope Gives Details Of Visit With Thanh

PHU BAI, Vietnam (AP) — an unspecified donation to Comedian Bob Hope said a North Vietnamese official told him that American prisoners of war would be released "tomorrow" if President Nixon sets a date for total U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam.

Hope, giving additional details today on his 90-minute talk Thursday with Nguyen Van Thanh, first secretary of the North Vietnamese Embassy in Vientiane, Laos, said:

"We had a long talk about several things. It always came back to the prisoners would be released tomorrow if President Nixon would abide by the seven-point proposal advanced by the North Vietnamese last July."

The seven-point peace plan was advanced by the Communist side at the Paris talks last July 1, and has been rejected by the Nixon administration. The first point said all U.S. prisoners would be released if the U.S. government sets a terminal date for withdrawal from South Vietnam.

The 68-year-old comedian, speaking to newsmen after a performance for GIs at this northern base, said his chances appear slim for obtaining a visa to enter North Vietnam to negotiate for the release of prisoners as a "private citizen."

"I would say the odds are very long," he declared.
